Masking You can use masks to create complex and beautiful images. You can create a mask, which is a type of channel, and then paint the mask to create a graphic shape. Figure 5-11 shows the Create Mask button in the upper-right corner of the Layers palette. After creating a mask, you can layer content on the mask and paint inside it or above it. You can then paint over the content or remove the content by erasing the mask. Figure 5-11. To create a mask, click the mask icon in the Layers palette. The Create Mask dialog box opens with the Mask Settings box open to the right of the dialog box. Click the Mask Settings box to change settings such as Blend Mode, Opacity, and Transparency. When you create a mask, it creates a new layer. It's good practice to make sure that you have a background layer so that you don't inadvertently paint in the background or change the location of the mask. There are many ways to work with masks and layers. The following steps show you how to place an image on a mask.

Beginner's Photoshop Elements Tutorial: Retouching an Image If you want to learn the best way to retouch an image, and understand how different tools in the image editor work, then the best place to start is with your favorite photo and a blank canvas. Possible Background: Portrait Artwork Create a new image on a white background. Click on the photo, hold down the Alt key (Option key on Mac) and click on another part of the photo. Do this until the entire photo is selected. Zoom in on the hair. Add a new layer, make sure Layer is selected and click on the color-picker icon in the new layer's options window. Choose a light blue color, and apply it to the new layer. Do this for the hair. Click on the 'pencil' icon in the new layer's options window, and then click on the layer in your photo. Add some paint if you like. This is already looking good and the photo is too hard to retouch – there are too many details. There are a few ways to improve it: remove the starlight, erase the red shoes and add a yellow filter. Start at the eyes. Click on the 'pencil' icon in the new layer's options window and then click on the photo. Erase the eyes and add a soft yellow filter. Erase the nose and make it a bit wider. Delete the red shoes and add a harsh red filter. Under the lower lip, erase the red lips and add a thin black outline. Retouch the hair and have the edges go up a bit. Just tap 'C' to deselect everything. You may have chosen the wrong filter for each area you are retouching.

By Captain Pyke | October 18, 2010 - 9:18 pm This has got to be one of the most sought after TOS sets ever seen on E-Bay. It's a custom built tri-pod that was built by a graduate of Trek's Star Trek Motion Picture Make-up Department. It's built right down to the last gizmo and is accesible for viewing. It's currently priced at $500.00 OBO. If you're looking for your own, e-mail me at christine@trekcanada.com. UPDATE: I want to thank everyone for their comments and questions about this deal. I'd like to clarify that it was definitely a custom build. The buyer went through the process with the seller, sending him drawings and specifications. It was built by the seller, not by someone in the public. I've been getting a lot of comments about this and I wanted to clarify that it was built by a graduate of the Make-up Department of Star Trek movies. The seller goes by the nickname "Dany". Thanks again for everyone's comments. UPDATE II: It's been more than a week since I posted this item and I haven't heard a word. Apparently the buyer was getting nervous about the time involved in handling the item. I reached out to him yesterday and he let me know he is still interested. Unfortunately, the seller won't entertain any offers or counter offers. He's willing to sell to whomever is serious about purchasing the item and not just 'playing around'. He can be reached at christine@trekcanada.com and his email address will tell you how to contact him. I will reach out to the seller to determine what's up with the delay on this one. I'll keep you updated. UPDATE III: One week after posting this, we have no news on this one. I've reached out to the seller a few times and the only thing he has to say is that he's waiting for some members of the CBS legal team to get back to him. I have a hard time believing that they would send someone from legal if they wanted to purchase the item. I've been trying to explain to the seller that we may have to do a negotiated price to reduce the asking price but he isn't interested in that. He wants the whole cost of the piece to be paid up front. We've contacted him several times and he's just ignoring our messages. He's had the item for patients suffering from primary osteoarthritis of the knee joint was studied. A short-term administration of a single injection of methylprednisolone sodium succinate (20 mg i.v.) was found to exert no statistically significant effect on the phagocytic activity of circulating blood monocytes. The results of the present study indicate that the use of corticosteroids in the treatment of osteoarthritis of the knee joint is not advisable.Metastatic hepatoid adenocarcinoma of the ampulla of Vater. A case of metastatic hepatoid adenocarcinoma of the ampulla of Vater is presented. The patient underwent total gastrectomy and transduodenal ampullectomy for an adenocarcinoma and was treated with adjuvant chemotherapy (cisplatin and 5-fluorouracil), radiotherapy and intraperitoneal (IP) chemotherapy. Postoperatively, the patient developed disease recurrence in the abdominal lymph nodes and, eventually, the liver. The patient subsequently died of hepatic failure. The histological pattern of the liver metastasis was similar to that of the primary carcinoma. Immunohistochemical studies revealed diffuse cytoplasmic positivity for alpha-1-antitrypsin (alpha 1 AT) and a patchy staining pattern for alpha-1-antichymotrypsin (alpha 1 AT) in tumor cells. There was an in-situ hybridization pattern for carcinoembryonic antigen (CEA
